Why would Streetlaw benefit my higher education institution/youth group?

1. Streetlaw is a free legal education project which empowers individuals by making them aware of their rights and responsibilities as citizens in a democratic society. It improves access to justice by:
 - (a) demystifying complex areas of law which directly affect members of the public; and
 - (b) challenging negative perceptions of the law and encouraging discussion about wider legal issues through the delivery of fun and interactive legal workshops to individuals and groups that might not otherwise have access to legal information.
2. We work with a range of audiences, including schoolchildren (Streetlaw Schools and Youth Groups), colleges, universities, charities, community groups and young entrepreneurs (Streetlaw Enterprise) prisoners and ex-offenders (Streetlaw Prisons), homeless people (Streetlaw Homeless) and carers of vulnerable adults affected by mental health issues (With Law In Mind).
3. Streetlaw workshops are free, informative and interactive. We encourage critical thinking and active participation from our audience members through activities such as role plays, group discussion and quizzes. The format allows for audience members to develop and offer their own opinions in a respectful and controlled environment.
4. The Streetlaw programme has a precedent bank of over 60 workshops: each can be tailored to the particular audience's needs. New workshops are continually developed in response to topical issues (e.g. changes to data protection laws) and client requests for bespoke sessions will be considered.

Why are BPP students best placed to deliver Streetlaw?

1. BPP University Law School's Pro Bono Centre ("BPP") recognises the injustice inherent in our society's unmet legal needs. We strive to enhance access to justice by facilitating the provision of pro bono legal services in our local communities. This includes our Streetlaw project, which is free to members of the public.
2. Streetlaw is delivered by trained BPP law students who are in their final stages of academic and vocational training prior to entry into the legal profession. The Streetlaw materials are overseen by tutors that are qualified lawyers internal to BPP.
3. Streetlaw Enterprise focuses on informing young aspiring entrepreneurs of their rights and the legal implications of setting up and running their own businesses through delivering business- focused education to colleges, universities, youth groups, charities, community groups and young entrepreneurs. Venues for Streetlaw Enterprise have included Goldsmiths University of London and Westminster Kingsway College.

4. BPP's Streetlaw project is an award winning programme, recognised on a national level at the annual LawWorks and Attorney General Student Awards for its positive impact in local communities.

How does Streetlaw work?

- The Streetlaw Enterprise project is run by Student Directors (all law students at BPP). Their work is overseen by a member of staff at the BPP site local to you.
- To book a single or series of workshops contact the member of staff relevant to your locality (details below). You can then discuss and agree details of your preferred venue, time and topic, and any other needs particular to the intended audience.
- The Student Directors organise a small group of student volunteers to attend your venue to deliver the workshop(s) (usually 45 – 60 minutes long to fit into your timetable). The students are trained prior to delivery of the workshop.
- All we require from you is that a member of your staff is present in the room with our volunteers during the course of the workshop. Use of projector facilities at the venue is desirable but not necessary.

What Streetlaw sessions are available?

The list below covers some of the most popular topics we deliver to schools/youth groups. We are happy to discuss new requests/particular audience needs.

Business finance	Employment Law	Intellectual Property
Business online	Consumer law

A quick word about the remit of the Streetlaw service

Streetlaw workshops are aimed at empowering individuals with knowledge and information about their rights. Knowledge is an extremely powerful tool. The student volunteers are not allowed (and do not have the professional expertise) to give any specific legal advice to audience members about their personal circumstances. Audience members can, however, be signposted by Streetlaw presenters to alternative sources of help.
